programs like this, which are aimed at reducing health care costs, may be able to provide the money and training needed to convince more doctors to use pdas.

the sleep cycles of twelve students were investigated at the start of a semester and during exam time for the study