it seems that buprenorphine in sublingual or transdermal forms produces less “liking” and therefore presents less of a risk for developing abuse and addiction.